DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election of Group I, claims 1-9 and 16-18, and species B, i.e., an adhesive sheet with a pressure sensitive adhesive layer which absorbs 5 g/m<sup>2</sup> or more of solvent after being immersed in solvent for one second, and claims 2-4, 8 and 9 read on the elected species, in Paper No. 9 is acknowledged. Because applicant did not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election has been treated as an election without traverse (MPEP § 818.03(a)).

Specification

2. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. Claims 2-4, 8 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as based on a disclosure which is not enabling. It is noted that the composition of the adhesive is critical or essential to the practice of the invention, but not included in the claim(s) is not enabled by the disclosure. See In re Mayhew, 527 F.2d 1229, 188 USPQ 356 (CCPA 1976).

More particularly, it appears that the composition of the adhesive which effects the specification interaction, such as the solvent absorption rate and solubility, between the adhesive and solvent is critical or essential to the practice of the invention, <sup>and</sup> the absence of the composition of suitable adhesive in the claims renders the instant claimed invention in excess of its provided enablement.

4. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

5. Claims 2-4, 8 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims merely setting forth physical characteristics desired in article, and not setting forth specific compositions which would meet such characteristics, are invalid as vague, indefinite, and functional since they cover any conceivable combination of ingredients either presently existing or which might be discovered in future and which would impart desired characteristics. As such, the recitation in claim 2, lines 4-10, of "wherein the pressure sensitive adhesive layer absorbs 5 g/m<sup>2</sup> or more of a solvent contained in the substance to be removed when the pressure sensitive adhesive sheet is immersed in the solvent for 1 second, and wherein the pressure sensitive adhesive sheet after absorbing 5 g/m<sup>2</sup> of the solvent has a tackiness of 1 cN/25-mm or more" is too broad and indefinite since it purports to cover everything which will perform the desired functions regardless of its composition, and, in fact, recites compounds by what it is desired that they do rather than what they are. Also, the recitation is too broad since it appears to read upon materials that could not possibly be used to accomplish purposes intended. Ex parte Slob (PO BdApp) 157 USPQ 172.

In claim 4, lines 3-5, the phrase "a pressure-sensitive adhesive constituting the pressure-sensitive adhesive layer comprises such components alone that are insoluble in a solvent" is vague and indefinite. Clarification is requested. Does the term "alone" means "only"?

Finally, it is noted that multiple dependent claim 8 is dependent upon other multiple dependent claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 2-4, 8 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Applicants' admitted prior art.

It is noted that Applicants appear to have admitted that a pressure sensitive adhesive sheet for removing a solvent containing paste, such as the excess ink at the back of the printing plate, is known (Specification, page 3, lines 3-21). Although the prior known art does not expressly teach the solvent absorption property and the tackiness of the suitable adhesives, it is believed that these aforementioned properties are either inherently disclosed or an obvious selection to one of ordinary skill in the art, motivated by the desire to cleanly remove the excess ink, as taught by the prior known art.

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. In addition, the following references are cited of interest for making pressure sensitive adhesive sheet for removal of ink:
